One of Japan's three major shrines enshrining "Benzaiten"

Enoshima Shrine

Explanation of Tourist Attraction

It is a shrine located on Enoshima island. Founded in 552, it is called Enoshima Shrine combining three different shrines, "Hetsumiya", "Nakatsumiya" and "Okutsumiya." They enshrine "Enoshima Benzaiten", which is one of Japan's three largest Benzaiten. People come here to pray for blessings in marine transportation, fishing, travel, and marriage. It was chosen as a location in a romance film some years ago, and has become even more recognized.

selling point

In the picture scroll called "Enoshima Engi", which is one of the treasures in the shrine, there is a love story about a five headed dragon and an angel, which has made this shrine a special place for marriage.

Enoshima Island Spa

The "spa pool" has indoor and outdoor areas, and requires swimsuits, making it enjoyable for groups, couples, and families. You can also enjoy the great view of Mt. Fuji and the sea from the indoor natural hot spring "Fujimi-yu."

Seafood Gourmet

Although Enoshima is famous for the "whitebait bowl", there are many restaurants where you can enjoy fresh sea specialties like seafood rice bowls, grilled turban shells, and baked clams. Seafood skewers are also popular.
