Somei Yoshino cherry trees that surround a vast lawn

Cherry Blossom Trees in Negishi Forest Park

Explanation of Tourist Attraction

This park was created on the site of the Negishi Racecourse, which was the first full-scale racecourse in Japan. Unlike other parks in the city, this park does not have many facilities, with its biggest charm being a vast lawn that occupies the entire surface of the gently sloping terrain. The scenery created by many trees in the park is also splendid in each of the seasons. In particular, the park becomes fairly crowded during the cherry blossom season.

The Equine Museum of Japan in the adjacent Negishi Horseracing Memorial Park presents horse-themed exhibitions such as "History and Horses". Additionally, the popular Pony Center within the memorial park houses thoroughbreds, ponies and Japanese native horses, and visitors can observe horse riding and how the horses are cared for.

In February 2009, Negishi Forest Park was designated as a Heritage of Industrial Modernization.

selling point

About 350 cherry trees bloom in this park, making it one of the best places in the prefecture to see cherry blossoms.
