Japan's Only Naval Harbor Cruise
 Featuring American and Japanese Ships
Yokosuka Naval Port Cruise

Explanation of
 Tourist Attraction

Yokosuka Port has been developed as a naval port since Commodore Perry of the US landed approximately 160 years ago. It is widely known as a port where there are US navy facilities (Yokosuka Main Port) and the headquarters of the Maritime Self Defense Force (Nagaura Port) and the cruise incorporates these ports. Yokosuka Naval Port Cruise is the only cruising tour in Japan where you can get up close to US navy and Maritime Self Defense Force ships.

Jogashima

The photograph "Horseback Cave"

This place received a two-star rating in the third edition of the Michelin Green Guide Japan. To the west, you can see Mt. Fuji from across the Bay of Sagami. From the hiking courses to the north, you can view the magnificence of the Pacific Ocean through the "Horseback Cave" rock formation.
